

How to clean the blinds or the awning?

The fundamental question that each of us asks themselves when buying blinds or curtains is how to maintain them clean afterwards. Different types of blinds are cleaned in different ways according to the materials they are made of.

Venetian blinds are cleaned with soft brush. It goes between the slats of the blinds and removes the accumulated dust. Vertical blinds can be washed with soft brush, only with water and no added detergent because textile slats have a special craftsmanship, which can be damaged by the use of detergent. Plisse shades are made of special fabrics which do not retain dust and dirt. If you still want to freshen up the look of plisse shades you can clean them with a soft brush. Roman shades are extremely easy to maintain. The fabric is easily removed because it is attached with a sticker, it should be washed at 30°, it should be ironed and then attached back to the mechanism.

Each one of us wants its awning to look clean and fresh. By buying the fabrics of PARA which KAMAX offers, you can maintain your awning clean without much effort. The fabrics of the Italian firm PARA possess plenty of features such as Teflon coating and Sanitized function, they can clean themselves or it is enough to pour some water over them to make them shine again. The fabric is made in a way that does not let it retain humidity and create mold.
